

Child Safe Recruitment, Induction and Training Policy

Purpose of this policy

The aim of this policy is to ensure that staff responsible for recruitment, induction and training at Chabad Youth NSW follow consistent child safe practices. This includes robust candidate screening, comprehensive induction, and ongoing training to ensure every person working or volunteering in child-related roles is safe, suitable, and well-prepared to uphold our organisation's commitment to child safety.

The policy sets out the processes for child safe recruitment of staff and volunteers for any child-related roles. The policy also includes the induction process for new recruits and volunteers, and further training that may be required at times for all staff, including volunteers. This is to make sure they continue to have the required skills to prevent risk of harm to children.

Who the policy is for

This policy is for staff undertaking recruitment of staff or volunteers for child-related roles.

The child safe recruitment and induction processes set out in this policy must be applied to anyone we are considering for a child-related role at Chabad Youth NSW.

This policy applies to staff and volunteers involved in the recruitment and onboarding of individuals for child-related roles. It covers any positions involving:

- Supervision of children
- Unmonitored engagement with children
- Offsite child-related activities
- Access to children's personal information
- Transporting children

Processes for child safe recruitment for staff and volunteers

Employees

1. Include our commitment to child safety in our advertising

Our job advertisements include details about our organisation's commitment to being child safe. We let potential staff members know at the outset that we uphold children's rights and take implementation of the Child Safe Standards seriously, and that everyone who works with children must have a cleared Working with Children Check. We provide a link in the job ad to our Statement of Commitment to Child Safety.

2. Conduct a robust interview process for new employees

At Chabad Youth NSW we conduct a robust interview process. This involves:

- a. Setting up an interview panel: we decide who will take part in the selection process to help pre-assess the applicants and conduct the interviews
- b. Short-listing: we pre-assess applicants' suitability to work with children and develop a short list
- c. Having the interview: we decide on the questions we want to ask. For child-related roles, questions will generally focus on the applicants' experience working in previous child-related roles
- d. Assessing candidates and making the final selection: the panel discuss the interviews and make notes on strengths and weaknesses to help them decide on the best candidate.

Appendix A provides the document we use to support the interview process.

3. Check references

Each candidate must provide the details of two referees.

At least one of the referees should be someone from their most recent role.

Referees should have directly supervised or managed the applicant in a professional capacity.

If the applicant has never worked before or has just left school, character references may be acceptable. However, these should not be from family members or be given as much weight as professional references.

We ask each referee whether they see any issues with the applicant working with children.

Note

Appendix B provides the document we use to support the reference checking process.

4. Screen and verify applicant's Working with Children Check

In NSW all adult workers in child-related work, whether paid or unpaid, must hold a WWCC clearance or a current application for a Working with Children Check (WWCC) clearance (unless they are subject to an exemption).

Volunteers must also hold a cleared and verified WWCC before commencing. Where applicable, volunteers are interviewed or complete a child safety questionnaire and provide at least one non-family referee.

Before commencing employment, we make sure the applicant has a cleared WWCC and we verify it on the OCG's website.

We keep records for each verified worker, including:

1. Full name
2. Date of birth
3. WWCC number
4. Verification date
5. Verification outcome
6. Expiry date of WWCC
7. Whether the worker is in paid or volunteer work.

We continue to monitor and act to:

- keep all workers and volunteers' WWCC details up to date
- remind employees to renew which they can do up to 3 months before their WWCC expires, and
- remove anyone whose WWCC status is barred, interim barred, whose WWCC cannot be found or has expired from child-related work. We can only employ people who have an Application number or WWCC clearance in child-related work.

Volunteer screening

Before commencing, volunteers working or interacting directly with children in our organisation must also have a cleared and verified Working with Children Check, unless they are exempted. This should follow the processes set out above for new employees..

Where possible, we undertake an informal interview with new volunteers, as part of our screening process. This should follow the general principles outlined above for employees.

If we are unable to conduct an interview, we ask volunteers to fill out a child safe questionnaire before they are permitted to work with children. This asks them to describe their beliefs and values in relation to working with children, and what they understand about being a child safe organisation.

Volunteers should also provide at least one referee – ideally someone who has worked with them in a previous role (paid or unpaid). We check with the referee whether they have any issues with the person working with children.

What to do if our organisation is notified that someone is barred from working with children

It is an offence to allow a barred person to work with children and they must be removed from child-related work.

A person is barred from working with children if the Office of the Children's Guardian (OCG) has determined that the person is a risk to working with children.

When the OCG bars a person in our organisation from working with children, they will contact the person registered as our 'contact person' when we initially registered as an employer in the WWCC system. The purpose of the initial contact is to determine whether the worker is currently working in our organisation, and whether they are working with children.

It is important that we respond to this request promptly and accurately.

If we have confirmed that the worker is working with children in our organisation, the OCG will issue a formal written notification advising us to remove the worker from working with children.

Once this has been received, we need to take immediate action and respond to the OCG in writing, confirming that the worker has been removed from working with children.

A record must be kept of our actions. This information should be treated confidentially and only the people in the organisation who need to know this should be advised.

Child safe induction

At Chabad Youth NSW we recognise that making sure a staff member or volunteer is safe and suitable to work with children is an ongoing process. Inductions for staff and volunteers include:

- an overview of all our child safe documents, including our Child Safe Code of Conduct (to be read and signed), the Child Safe Risk Management Plan and our Child Safe Reporting Policy, ensuring that that new staff and volunteers are advised of their reporting obligations and how to identify and raise a child safety concern
- a tour of our premises explaining any physical risks new recruits should be aware of (which are included in our Child Safe Risk Management Plan) and relevant behaviours on site as set out in the our Code of Conduct, including the use of personal devices

- ensuring new recruits complete required child safe training (see below), and
- monitoring and supervision.

We support new recruits and volunteers with appropriate instruction and feedback when needed, including regular oversight as they become familiar with the new role.

There is also a [6-month probationary period – adjust to suit your organisation or for temporary roles] for all workers to make sure they are a good fit with our organisation.

Child safe training

New staff and volunteers should complete required child safe training. We encourage everyone to do introductory child safe training through Deborah Blackman of Educare.

Staff and volunteers must complete child safe training during induction and participate in ongoing education. This includes training from the Deborah Blackman of Educare and other relevant modules depending on their role.

Each volunteer or paid worker must sign a code of conduct agreement acknowledging that they have been trained, sitred and understand the code of conduct, repot and chioild safety polices.

Child Safe Code of Conduct review

All new staff and volunteers are required to complete child safe training as part of their induction. We strongly encourage participation in the introductory training facilitated by Deborah Blackman of Educare.

Ongoing education is essential, and all team members must engage in continued child safety training relevant to their roles. This includes sessions delivered by Deborah Blackman of Educare as well as other accredited modules.

Every volunteer and paid staff member must sign a Code of Conduct agreement, confirming that they have been trained, supervised, and fully understand the organisation's Code of Conduct, reporting obligations, and child safety policies.

Next review date

Avremi Joseph and Elimelech Levy will review this policy annually on 16/06/2027 unless there are any incidents, in which case it will be reviewed immediately.

*If someone has just applied for a WWCC, they will have an APP (application) number not a WWC number. They are allowed to work in child-related roles. You should verify their APP number, and then their WWC number when they obtain it. More information on this is in the WWCC section of this resource.
